WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—President Wilson completes the work she began, Wilson received at the White House "There is only one way to assure to-day a delegation of Pro-League Re- the world of peace," he declared, "and pub- licans. The been fought in vain unless the United President warned his hearers not to be deceived into supposing imperialistic schemes ended with the defeat of Ger- many or "that Germany is the only nation that entertained such schemes or was moved by sinister ambitions and long standing jealousies to attack the structure of civilization." "There are other nations," said the President, "which are likely to be powerfully moved or are already moved by com- mercial jealousies, by desire to domi- nate, and to have their own way in politics and in enterprise, and it is necessary to check them and to ap- praise them so that the world will be united against them as it was against Germany if they attempt any similar thing."

Irish Republican Funds Are Confiscated In Bank

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Many thou- sands of pounds alleged to belong to the Irish Republic were discovered and confiscated when military forces raided the Munster and Limerick Bank here yesterday. The money was distributed over several accounts in the bank it is said. The blow is likely to be extremely serious for Sinn Fein.

GERMAN VIEW ON JUTLAND BATTLE

British Account May Not Be Quite Correct.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—In the House of Commons to-day it was stated the proposal to publish an official account of the battle of Jutland has been abandoned. Information had been received from unofficial German sources throwing considerable light on the battle from a new angle. Any record based on British evidence only would therefore, it is said, be a one-sided version and would create a wrong impression of the battle. The whole of the material prepared by the Admiralty will be incorporated in Sir Julius Corbett's work under the authority of the committee of Imperial defence which is to be published next year.

Emergency Bill

Will Be When Great Britain
Signs Treaties.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Asked to-day in the House of Commons for an official date of the end of the war, Right Hon. Bonar Law, Government Leader, said it would as nearly as possible cor- respond with the signing of the Turkish and Bulgarian treaties by Great Brit- ain which are the only ones outstand- ing.

MINISTER OF FISHERIES COAKER CORRECTS HERALD

In connection with the "Herald" article last night, referred to elsewhere in this issue, the following letter has been sent to the Editor of the Evening Herald by Hon. W. F. Coaker, Minister of Marine and Fisheries. No one will more willingly give information about the Regulations than Mr. Coaker himself, and it is quite in order for him to suggest that before spreading abroad what only can be regarded as an outside opinion of a new Regulation, he should at least be asked first to explain it.

Dept. of Marine and Fisheries,
St. John's, Nfld.,
October 28th, 1920.

(Editor "Evening Herald")

Dear Sir,—In an editorial yesterday you stated Labrador Fish had been reduced 5— per quintal abroad. This is not correct. Prices have not been changed. No. 1 has been classed as "Choice," and No. 2 as "Prime." There is no white naped fish cured as Labrador under the Stand- ardization Rules.

I think you might consult me or someone conversant with such matters before you publish such statements.

Of course your statements will be cabled and will cause trouble abroad. When you cannot do any good, why do you persistently endeavour to do harm?

I would thank you to publish this.

Yours truly,

W. F. COAKER,
Minister of Marine & Fisheries.

Urge One Dollar Bounty on Ore Mined in Canada

800-TARIFF INQUIRY

Algoma Steel Advocates Retention
—Labor's Protest.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Oct. 23 —Thanksgiving Day made no differ- ence to the members of the Tariff and Inquiry Commission, and its sched- uled session was held here yesterday. The Independent Labor Party, a strong factor in this city's politics, attacked tariff protection, urging the gradual elimination of all import duty or taxes on food, clothing, including boots and shoes, and tools and machinery used in production, and ad- vocating instead a tax on land values and luxuries.

The local Board of Trade through its president, J. A. Hussey, presented a comprehensive statement urging a Government bounty of $1 a ton for iron ore mined in Canada, the grant- ing of which, it was maintained, "would involve only a small annual outlay and would bring an over- whelmingly large return by the stimu- lation of industrial activity."

The Algoma Steel Corporation, one of the largest industrial concerns in the country and a subsidiary company of the Lake Superior Cooperation, asked the retention of the present pro- tective tariff on steel rails, the company's chief product, to prevent the possible flooding of the Canadian market by similar products of Ameri- can steel companies. The sitting which was over early in the after- noon, closed the session in western and central Canada. In ten days further enquiries will be commenced in Eastern Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces.

In advocating an iron ore bounty, a statement favoring which had also been filed with the commission at the Port Arthur session, P. A. Hussey said: "At the present time, it is ad- mitted by all that the iron and steel are the basic industries of Canada. The Canadian iron and steel industry depends, one might as well say, al- most wholly on ore imported from the United States and other countries. These importations, naturally, have helped to turn trade balances against us and trade balances are a matter which effect everyone in the coun- try."

are two items which figure prominently in our tailoring. Of course, there's quality, too — in the suits and overcoats, trousers, vests, or other items of apparel we make, but things that stand out prominent and plain to all are fit and finish. These can be seen at a glance — the quality must be proven by time. We guarantee our work, however, so you take no chances. ### ROMANTIC STORY OF RUSSIAN GOLD

VANCOUVER, B.C., Oct. 16.—Two seemingly unrelated items appeared recently in news despatches which recalled an hitherto unpublished and romantic story of the war. The scene centered in Vancouver, but under censorship rules the story could not be published at the time.

The two items were these: A Reuter dispatch in which Mr. Novitsky, former assistant to the minister of finance in the All-Russian government, hinted at the huge amount of gold which was shipped through Vancouver during the war, including 60,000,000 pounds from Vladivostok. A statement of the sale of the obsolete government warship Rainbow to a Seattle firm.

Both Mr. Novitsky and the Rainbow were central figures in one of the most interesting incidents of the war so far as it affected Vancouver.

The first shipment of Russian gold, amounting to about 45,000,000, arrived here in the February of 1916. It was in the form of bullion encased in boxes about fifteen inches long, six inches wide and three or four deep. It was loaded at Vladivostok for transfer to the mint at Ottawa, and came across the Pacific in a big Japanese warship with Novitsky in charge of treasure.

The treasure warship never came into harbor. Far out at sea off Cape Flattery in a half gale the warship was met by the little Rainbow and the precious freight transferred between the heave of the rollers. The most elaborate measures of secrecy were observed and it was three o'clock of a morning dark and wet, when the Rainbow nosed her way to shed one on the C. P. R. docks here.

Awaiting her were Mr. Peters and Mr. Vickers, head of the foreign department of the Dominion Express company, who came out especially from Montreal to superintend the transfer of the bullion across the continent. A specially selected crew of trusted men had been warned to be on hand for special duty and marched down to the wharf after midnight under special guards, and without any information of their duty or destination.

Awaiting the Rainbow was a train of coaches disguised as a sick train with five special express cars. On each of these cars was loaded $9,000,000 worth of gold. Four men armed heavily with rifles and revolvers received the cargo from the sailors. Each car was then closed, the doors heavily barred and guard mounted. The guards stood equal shifts throughout the journey. A telephone system connected the whole train, and when any of the sentinels wished to pass to the diner or to any other car they did so only on release from the official car to the door keepers. These doors were never opened when the train was at a standstill. No guard was permitted to show himself at the windows in passing through the towns. The train, at night, ran in absolute darkness, the men doing their work by flashlight.

This was the first of four or five such trains which passed through Vancouver during a period of a year and a half, the details being as follows: February, 1916, $45,000,000; August, 1916, $50,000,000; January, 1917, $117,000,000; August, 1917, $50,000,000.

SHORTER HOLIDAYS

Christian Science Monitor: The movement, now well under way, throughout the United States, for the curtailment of the long summer vacations in schools, colleges and universities is certainly deserving of all support. The four months vacation, the practice in many schools, is, of course, manifestly absurd; whilst even the two months' vacation of the public schools must be difficult of defense. Anyone who has had any experience of education must know how much precious time is wasted in making good the losses of the long vacation; whilst, as far as the boys and girls themselves are concerned, the "boredom" of the latter part of these long periods of idleness is quite generally accepted as inevitable. The whole system is one which has no parallel in any other field of activity.

CATHEDRAL BAZAAR OPENS

CONTINUES TO-DAY

Yesterday evening the bazaar arranged by the Women's Association of the Cathedral Parish was opened in the C.L.B. Armory by Miss Armorial Harris who presided in the absence of Lady Harris who was unable to attend owing to illness. Amongst those present were His Excellency the Governor, His Lordship Bishop White, Canon Jeeves, Rector of the Cathedral, Canon Bolt and many prominent citizens. The different stalls were very attractively arranged and the ladies in charge were kept busy all through the evening. The different side shows provided quite a lot of amusement but the hit of the evening was the Charlie Chaplin Comedy Co. This troupe, consisting of Messrs F. Bussy, E. Ash, and Joe Wheeler, the ventriloquist, gave shows every twenty minutes which were a big success especially amongst the younger element. Mrs. H. Outerbridge and Miss Mary Keegan were also seen in a playlet which was much enjoyed. The bazaar will be open again this evening when the ladies in charge will have their stalls again stocked to cater to the numbers who were unable to obtain what they required last night. The C.L.B. Band will also be in attendance and as the funds are being devoted for the repairs of the Cathedral there will no doubt be another large attendance this evening. The following is a list of the different stalls and the ladies who are in charge:

Handkerchief—Miss Ethel Cook.
Candy—Miss Rowe.
Women's Association Nancy—Mrs. Hitchcock.
Women's Association, Plain—Mrs. Roseworthy.

No Need To Despair!

In spite of the propaganda of certain politicians, Newfoundland is not going to lie down in this period of reconstruction and bewail because times are not the same as they have been the past five years.

The people can read of strikes and wholesale unemployment in other countries, and realize that this country is going to come through in good shape. The item in the "Herald" last night referring to some bankruptcies will be much resented by these who are carrying on business and by the Trade generally. This paper advertises to the world that a certain number of firms have been declared insolvent this fall, but fails to state that those who have thus failed are very small firms, if they can be called firms at all. They are all small businesses, some of them sprung up in a night, and their combined liabilities do not perhaps amount to much more than ten thousand dollars. But this sort of thing is set down by the "Herald" as "signs of the times," and will be duly reported to Canada and America, the country will get another "black eye," and it will become more difficult for even the big firms to do business. Only the other day we saw a communication from a Canadian firm, which mentioned the stories of bad times in Newfoundland as a reason for not dealing more extensively here. It is really hitting below the belt to draw attention to a few insignificant failures, when the fact is that the main business in Newfoundland to-day is perfectly solvent and sound. It may be true that, in common with the practice all over the world just now, stocks that may not be classed as "necessaries" are not being purchased as readily as former years, but that does not mean that bankruptcy stares Newfoundland in the face. Instead of the unusual trading of past years, we are coming within reach of normal years, and the commercial fabric of Newfoundland is well able to see its way clear to the better times coming when this period of adjustment has been passed.

It is a libel upon the best interests of the Country to insinuate that failures are increasing. It is well known that every year sees some businesses being wound up, and if some "mushroom" firms go out of business at this time, it does not follow that the Trade is being shaken to its foundations.

If it is good politics to damn the country by cries of trade depression, then save us from such politicians forever. We have made enquiries about business and, as we have said, we have no hesitation in saying that Newfoundland Trade can and will, easily weather this period, which is a critical one for the whole world, but no full-blooded Newfoundlander will thank the "Herald" for an item about insolvencies that can do no good to a man, woman or child in this country. This sort of thing would make all sorts of trouble for a firm who would want a perfectly legitimate accommodation from a Bank or another firm. Such items will make everyone become suspicious of each other, and would only be expected from those who, having plenty of this world's goods, do not care one iota what becomes of the Country. If there are men who would rejoice to see this Country ruined, it were better that we should know at once who they are, and string them up before the public, and let them be cut off from society for all time.

The Evidence That Convicts The Tory Pessimists

As a prime example of the disgraceful campaign by Tory politicians this year, in which pessimistic stories from this country have been sent abroad, we note an article in the "Financial Post," a reliable trade journal published in Toronto.

This article from St. John, N.B., states plainly: "IT APPEARS THAT PESSIMISTIC STORIES COMING FROM NEWFOUNDLAND HAVE BEEN CAUSING UNEASINESS IN THE MARITIME PROVINCES WHERE IN SOME QUARTERS THE FISHERMEN

ARE BEING TOLD THAT THEY WILL NOT GET MUCH OVER $6.00 PER QUINTAL FOR THEIR COD. IN VIEW OF THE FACT THAT IN MANY PARTS OF NEWFOUNDLAND THE CATCH OF COD THIS SUMMER HAS BEEN VERY SMALL IT HAS BEEN DIFFICULT TO UNDERSTAND THE PERSISTENT PREDICTIONS OF A BIG SLUMP IN THE PRICE OF FISH THERE. NEW BRUNSWICK ALSO REPORTS A POOR CATCH OF COD THIS SEASON, THOUGH IN OTHER LINES HER FISHERMEN HAVE DONE VERY WELL. NOVA SCOTIA HAS MADE A GOOD CATCH OF COD, AND THE PREDICTIONS IN REGARD TO THE FISH MARKET HAVE CAST A GLOOM OVER THE FISHERMEN."

There is a sample of the work of the Tory newspapers. Not only do they injure the interests of Newfoundland, but they are responsible for injury to the fishing industry of the Maritime Provinces. And yet the "Daily News," "Herald" and "Telegram" say they are not working against the fishermen! Not only the fishermen of Newfoundland, but of Canada, have been "soaked" by such Tory propaganda of "blue ruin" and a low price for fish. The article in the "Financial Post" concludes thus:

"The pessimistic stories which have been in circulation have nevertheless had a bad effect. In some cases fishermen have cancelled orders for fishing vessels, and the present indications are that few, if any, fishing vessels will be built in the Maritimes this winter."

Here is the evidence that convicts the enemies of Newfoundland within her borders. If it does not bring the mantle of shame to the cheeks of those who have been responsible for the stories of "blue ruin," then they have no conscience at all.

We shall refer again to this eye-opener to our readers of the damage that has been caused by the despicable "blue ruin" stories which have appeared in the Tory Press.

The Herald Incorrect

The Herald yesterday stated that the price of Labrador fish had been reduced abroad to the extent of 5— or $1.20. Both statements are untrue. The amendment to the standardization rules simply provides that No. 1 Labrador fish shall be known as "Choice" and No. 2 Labrador shall be known or sold as "Prime." The standard for all fish and markets now reads Choice and Prime, "Choice" being No. 1 and Prime No. 2 as exported in the past.

Some exporters had availed of the wording of the old regulations respecting Labrador standard, to export No. 1 Labrador to Liverpool as ordinary Prime, and sell at the price fixed for No. 2, or Ordinary Seconds. To make it absolutely clear that No. 1 Labrador must not be shipped as Ordinary Prime, and to bring all the standard names for No. 1 and No. 2 into uniformity the change was made. Prices therefore have not been changed, but the names of standards have.

The other incorrect statement is that 5— means $1.20 in Newfoundland currency. This will show our readers just how far some papers can stretch a lie to make it appear the truth, and to do so in order to injure the vital interests of the country. 5— is not $1.20 to-day, but less than 95 cents.

Possibly if the Telegram made such a statement few would expect better from that paper, but Sir P. T. McGrath when he stated 5— was equal to a reduction of $1.20 per qtl. absolutely knew that such was a deliberate misrepresentation and one unworthy of an editor of his standing.

Inspectors of fish will see that No. 1 Labrador will in future be stenciled Choice, and No. 2, Prime, that is the simple explanation of the amended regulation.

We doubt if fish had advanced 5— whether Sir P. T. McGrath would have announced it so conspicuously or with such large letters as he did the supposed reduction yesterday. When the price increased the other day 2/6 per qtl. for Large and Medium in Portugal there was no big black type appearing in the editorial columns of the Herald to announce it. Why should Sir P. T. be so eager to proclaim so conspicuously an alteration in the naming of Labrador fish and construe such a simple amendment into a bold black statement that fish had declined $1.20 per qtl. abroad? Was it because the wish was father to the thought?

Come, Sir Patrick, the public expect much better conduct from a Knight of the Realm. You are not honest to yourself, to your political opponents or to the endeavour to yourself, to your political opponents or to the endeavours 300 years prevailed in the markets for Newfoundland fish.

PORT UNION, THE FISHERMEN'S CITY

By "A STRANGER"

"One must visit Port Union to get an opinion of the greatness of its accomplishment."

"I could not have believed it, had not I visited there to see for myself."

"It far exceeds anything that has been said of it."

These are some of the many expressions of opinion heard from visitors to Port Union; but, though educated with impressions gleaned

The Marvel of the Most Progressive Business in The Country—Faith and Confidence in the Country and in the Toilers is Watchword of Founder of the F. P. U. Hon. W. F. Coaker. Everybody too Busy to Think of Trade Depression at Port Union.

rels of flour will suffice for F.P.U. requirements this season. But this is but one item, which shows the essentiality of the Union business fabric to the North.

Any visitor to Port Union will realize that no one has so much at stake in the country's future as Mr. Coaker, in his capacity of Manager of the Union companies and President of the largest organization that this country has ever possessed.

F. P. U. PREMISES, PORT UNION.

from visitors closely connected with the Port Union enterprise, the writer was yet pleasantly surprised at the magnitude of Coaker's Northern accomplishment and all his imaginative portrayals were dwarfed into insignificance with the stupendous reality of it all.

A Canadian commercialist who had recently visited Port Union asserted that, in point of convenience, modern equipment, and terminal facilities Port Union has no equal in this country and could rank with the best commercial premises in Canada and the United States. And the writer can concur with him that the master-man, whose master-mind gave to Newfoundland Port Union and its associated subsidiary concerns the toiler and made his life less miserable. It was not theirs, however, to rest upon their oars for the haven of complete triumph would not be reached until they could moor their fish laden craft by the wharves of a Port Union and support a business, distinctly a fishermen's business, built by fishermen's investments and their burning loyalty to the cause of Unionism.

The writer was at Port Union when the foundations were being dug from under the shrub-covered cliffs a few years ago; a most uninviting spot, rich in rocks* (a good foundation truly), but whose deep waterside then appeared its only redeeming feature. But in what contrast did I view Port Union as the train rolled into its station a few weeks ago. Here was a city, the product of a man's indomitable energy and the fishermen's united strength. It was alive with the hum of business, and its clear Northern atmosphere spoke of development and progress. Numerous vessels lay aside the piers unloading fish from the North, two or more cargoes were loading for Europe, in the stores were several thousands of splendid quality fish, bought from the fishermen at the highest prices offered during the season, and a handsome tern schooner, the "Port Union," lately launched, was being rigged in preparation for a trans-Atlantic voyage.

Here was a lesson for the times. The very air imbued confidence and optimism and nowhere could be heard stories of fear and disaster, with which the fishermen, now in St. John's, are being surfeited by the Opposition press from day to day.

Not with the Opposition cry of ruin, "blue ruin," dinning in their ears, but to the accompaniment of the rattle of donkey-winchies, the whistle of freight trains, the rolling of wharf-carts and the hum of elevators, every Port Union workman fulfils his duties from early morning till late at night. Everyone believes in Port Union and believes in Mr. Coaker, and cargoes are loaded and discharged and work generally is done with a despatch unknown to most business centres.

Space will not permit, nor is it my intention to lengthen this article by a description of this metropolis of the North. As inferred at the beginning, any attempt to give adequate description of Port Union would be futile. One must visit the place to see. Suffice to say, the stores, for size plan, equipment, handling facilities and general cleanliness is unequalled in this country. The wharf facilities are most extensive. Indeed thirty vessels could, at the same time, comfortably discharge at the piers and frontage.

The provision store is spacious, well laid out, splendidly kept, and is under skilful management.

The shop stores have no equal on Water Street, and the splendid suit of offices, occupying almost the whole fourth storey of the main building, excels any office in the country.

Well arranged, a perfect heating system, steam and electric, excellently lit in stores, on wharves and streets, capable of berthing the largest steamers engaged in the Newfoundland trade, possessing a co-operation supplying requirements for 80,000 qtls. of our staple product, and a shipbuilding plant providing ships to carry the fish to market, Port Union stands alone, unsurpassed in our Island home, a credit to industry, a credit to Coaker and expressive of the sterling mettle of the Northern men.

Honour is where honour is due, and there is no fair-minded man, be he Liberal or Tory, Coaker or anti-Coaker, but will take off his hat to Coaker and the Northern fishermen and heartily congratulate them on their most practical exhibition of success. Their pioneer efforts have been coined into a golden service and, let who will scream about Coaker, President of the Fishermen's Union, the fact remains that Coaker has in the short space of years, opened up a new vista in the lives of the toilers of the sea.

Over one million dollars have been placed in the Port Union enterprise, we are informed; but Port Union is but the headquarters of thirty-five union stores, erected in most of the principal harbours of the North, and in which a three million dollar business is transacted yearly. Without considering the revenue which the country derives from this source, (the income from the telegraph office, at Pt. Union, alone amounts to $6,000 annually), can one imagine the great good of such an enterprising and reassuring business service to the country at the present time. Perhaps not less than 25,000 bar-

The man who made Port Union possible must continue Port Union on the road of development, and this only can be done by making the country or its people as prosperous and contented as possible, and serving them in both the political and commercial life to the best of his ability. It is sheer hypocrisy for the individuals, interested in the political and commercial undoing of the fishermen, to represent President Coaker as neglectful of the fishermen's interest. In encouraging the cry of "blue ruin," these individuals are the true criminals; but anon, we shall not encroach too much upon your valued space, Mr. Editor.

Yet, this article cannot be concluded without mentioning the efforts made by Mr. Coaker in inculcating a social feeling among the people, now numbering about six hundred.

There is a splendid school at Port Union, a moving picture show presenting splendidly educative pictures, and almost completed is one of the most beautiful churches to be found in the outports.

It is the Church of the Holy Martyrs. Standing on the hill overlooking the sea, this edifice presents a splendid appearance, and one can think of nothing more appropriate for the commemoration of the noble "Coaker" recruits, than this building.

There were ten soldier-lads who died; and there are ten windows of artistic design to be erected. These windows are being prepared by Mr. Ballantyne, the Scotch artist, whom the writer had the pleasure of meeting a few weeks ago, in St. John's.

After a most interesting stay of two days we left Port Union at night, 'neath the blaze of electric lights. As the train receded up the Bonavista Branch Port Union still illumined the night. From the sea, the electric glare is discernible for many miles, say seamen say.

The water power at Port Union is unlimited and in due course, it is expected, that all places on the Bonavista Peninsula north of Trinity, will enjoy this modern blessing. Within a few weeks the "juice" will be given Bonavista, as the poles and wires are just about completed, large gangs of men being employed during the season to expedite the work.

It were good for Newfoundland if there were more Coakers and more Port Unions; and it were good if the Opposition scrawlers would drop their political pens and view the future with an eye to their country's real interest and inspire that confidence of which Port Union is a practicable and outstanding symbol.

The writer cannot close without mentioning the general hospitality displayed by the Port Union folk. Though a comparative stranger, we soon found ourselves welcome in the company of "Charlie," Dug White, J. E. C. Gardner, Capt. Jones and others.

We thank them all. We congratulate them all on being associated, in responsible capacities, with perhaps the greatest constructive work ever being successfully operated on behalf of the toilers.

Mr. Coaker cannot pay as much attention as he would desire to Port Union, as his public duties as Acting Prime Minister and Minister of Fisheries must demand his presence in St. John's; but he must be thankful that the good work so well begun can be left more, and more in capable hands, while he devotes his valued ability to other spheres of duty on behalf of his countrymen. Long live Coaker and the F. P. U., and may the lights of Port Union ever be the beacon of the North!

gave to the country a most valuable asset, to the fishermen a most cherished boon, and, was, in himself, an outstanding figure, of which Newfoundland should ever be proud and whose name should be written in letters of gold on the pages of her national life.

When the pioneers of the North first tore away the cliffs where now towers the business houses of the fishermen's city, they began a venture which to-day fills an essential place in the economic life of the country, for on all sides the question now is asked, "Where would the North be but for Coaker and Port Union?"

They were actuated with the motive of service. They had taken their place in the political arena, but saw the necessity of commercial power, as well. Their representatives had served them well and had placed on the statute book many measures which protected

Showing How the Hardy Fishermen Work to Earn Their Livelihood

Come all you fishers of our Bay
And listen to my song,
Please pay attention for a while,
It won't detain you long.
'Twas on the twenty-eight of June,
As you may understand,
We set sail on our fishing craft
And drew away from land.

Our homes are where you all know well,

In Smith Sound, Trinity Bay,
And all our hearts were filled with glee,
As we sailed out that day.
The wind was blowing strong and free,
From her bows she drove the foam,
We called in Catalina town,
Our skipper's native home.

We left again next morning,
The wind being good and free,
Cape Bonavist bore on our port
And a fog bank on our lee;
The wind did blow quite suitable,
Not too little or too much;
We gathered on the quarter deck
To settle up the watch.

So that being done, one watch below,
The other at his post
Her course was set which left behind
Dear Catalina coast.
Our names I would unfold to you,
But its only yarning time,
'Twould test the art of any poet
To bring it into rhyme.

We sailed along all that long day
With everything at ease,
And when down on Cat Harbor shore
We took a fresher breeze.
We got down to Stag Harbor,
About half down through the run,
We dropped our anchor there that night
To wait for morn to come.

Next morning came quite cheerful
And everything looked bright,
We felt as strong as unicorns
After a good sleep in that night.
We hove our anchor to the bow,
And all our sails did set,
When she was fully under way
She darts along you bet.

Ahead of us down in the run,
More schooners could be seen,
But we over-hauled them in Green Bay
With the wind abaft her beam.
That evening, about four o'clock
Gray Island drawing near,
The fog came down as thick as tar
And through it we did steer.

You should have seen her travel on,
So gentle and so nice,
But to our surprise the look-out shouts
'It's a solid jam of ice!'
The man to the wheel put it hard down
And I tell you she did spin,
We sailed away from the edge of ice
And hove her to the wind.

We lay there some considerable time,
Till the fog it got quite thin,
And every heart was filled with joy
To find 'twas only a string.
We steered a course in for the land
Schooners to left and right
Fog made us round her to again
And remain so for that night.

But when the morning dawn did break,
The fog was cleared away,
Besides it every prospect showed
Of a pleasant time that day,
And sure enough it turned out so,
The promising wind did blow,
And at three o'clock that evening
Into Fortune we did go.

We left again with morning light
The wind was blowing fair,
We steered our course for Ha Ha,
And dropped our anchor there.
Our intention was to stay awhile,
Expecting fish to come,
After nine days we left again,
As for fish there was none.

We steered our course across the straits,
Bound for the Labrador,
Light a giant girded with all his might,
She hauled down on the shore.
We found no fish to hang us up
Till we reached Ryan's Bay
We couldn't go much further
So of course we had to stay.

I know you all will love to hear
We got a bumper trip,
Although sometimes we would be dry,
And more times we'd be wet!
Our hardships now we all forget,
Once more we are at home,
And may luck always follow up
The schooner "Maggie Stone."

RESULT OF GARDEN COMPETITION 1920

And Rules For Bulb Competition—Dear Girls and Boys,—You will be anxious to know who won this year's prizes.

All the gardens showed a remarkable improvement over last year's efforts. Many were nicely arranged and free from weeds. The window boxes were a disappointment and competitors must understand that boxes cannot be judged unless they are on the window sill and attached.

The vegetables were splendid. We congratulate the prize-winners whose names are given below:
